Read the passage carefully and choose the best answer to each question out of the four alternatives.

Passage (Five Questions)

The question of race has caused bloodbaths throughout history. Take the case of the Negro, a negro is someone with black skin who comes from Africa. It is an old fashioned word and is offensive. Some people used to write that way deliberately. The word "nigger" is also very offensive. The word was later replaced by "coloured" which gave way to "black". Black is a colour with negative suggestions. So we have expressions like "black deed", "black day" and "blackmail". So no wonder the word "black" too assumed unfavourable meanings. (Although in the 1960's the famous slogan 'Black is beautiful' was coined, and it did not help.) The blacks of the United States therefore came to be called Afro-Americans. Now, the politically correct phrase is African American.

Passage (Five Questions)

The field of medicine forces a confrontation between scientific and everyday language. Outside the world of the research laboratory and clinic, there exists the daily routine of medical practice, a situation where a doctor tries to understand the problems of a patient, and the patient attempts to understand the doctor's diagnosis. The initial statement of the symptoms of any disease is of critical importance as it guides the doctor's search for the clinical signs of the condition. Similarly, the doctor's explanation of a problem, and the recommendations for treatment, need to be clear and complete if the patient is to understand and follow the correct course of action.

The need for careful listening and expression by both parties should be obvious in a field as sensitive and serious as health. Patients worried about their health are often uncertain and confused in their accounts. Busy doctors will not have the time to take up every point the patient has referred to. Moreover, the tradition of medical interviewing hinders the development of a genuine communication.

106. Which of the following statements is true?
- (A) The patient's relatives should be involved in the interaction.
  - (B) Medical communication is a specialized branch of professional communication.
  - (C) Doctors should use medical terms in their instructions as these are specific.
  - (D) Patients must learn medical terms.

107. Doctors are sometimes unable to treat the patient properly because

- Ans D
- (A) They do not know the language used for communicating with patients.
  - (B) They have a superiority complex.
  - (C) They are too busy in performing surgeries.
  - (D) They do not have the time to consider every point made by the patient.

108. Which of the following statements best reflects the theme of the passage?

- Ans D
- (A) For proper treatment, patients should listen carefully to the instructions.

- (B) Communication should not be made a component of medical education.
- (C) There must be little research in the field of doctor-patient interaction.
- (D) Medical profession requires a careful use of medical and everyday language.

109. Patients are often unable to give a proper account of their ailment to the doctor because

- Ans D
- (A) they are worried about their health.
  - (B) they want to hide certain symptoms of the disease.
  - (C) they have an inferiority complex.

Passage (Five Questions)

If a country should have a message for its people, it should be a message of human dignity. The ideals of a nation should be of the freedom of ideas, speech, press, the right to assemble and the right to worship. A country should boldly proclaim to a world dominated by tyrants that "all men are created equal and they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights" and "among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness". This should be the source of the strength and power of a nation. If people have the freedom to live their lives in dignity, they can work with a sound mind and physical health. The moral, political, and economic stature of a country lies in the strength of its people. A nation should strive to be a more perfect, not the perfect country where the people is given a promise and a hope in their minds to work and cherish liberty, justice, and opportunity. We do not always get what we want when we want it but it is always better to believe that someday, somehow, someway, we will get what we want.

Passage (Five Questions)

The world is becoming a dangerous place to live in, and this is despite our claims of being civilized, of having evolved from the primitive to the modern man and from the cave man to cultured being.

Many reasons can be attributed to this. A man longs to be the king of all kingdoms, but is too extravagant and idle. He desires that his writ should run through the whole world. But then he is lazy and lethargic. Man is mean, far inferior to other species. We are more human than humane. We have negative qualities such as anger, ego, envy, greed, hatred, and jealousy, that we should consider overcoming.

We have allowed these qualities to become our consuming passions. We think that we are mightier than most. We think we are capable of destroying anything by using our might. Today, we have acquired weapons of mass destruction, which are capable of obliterating all life from the face of this planet.

As men we arm men. Then we destroy people without arms. Then why are we giving vent to this anger? We let our wrath take over our senses. We fight to satisfy our egos. The overpowering obsession of a man with himself motivates him to grab everything and to fulfil his greed.

178. What does man think of himself today?

Ans

(A) That he can rule the world.

D

(B) That he can be king of all kingdoms.

(C) That he is more humane than human.

(D) That he is mightier than most.

179. Give the antonym of "Obliterate".

Ans

(A) Erase (B) Create

B

(C) Prevent (D) Destroy

180. What is man capable of achieving today?

Ans

(A) The power to conquer the world.

C

(B) The ability to have his writ run through the whole world.

(C) The power to obliterate life from this planet.

(D) The ability to destroy everything.

181. What are the qualities that have become man's consuming passion?

Ans

(A) The desire to be king

B

(B) Anger, ego, greed, envy, hatred and jealousy

(C) Laziness and lethargy (D) Idleness and laziness

Passage (Five Questions)

Nobody can argue that the acquisition of knowledge is more fun and easier with computers. The mere activity of touching and exploring this device constitutes an enjoyable task for a child. This, accompanied by the relaxing attitude and software interactivity, usually contributes to a better grasping of new knowledge. At a higher educational level the availability of digital books, simulators and other academic materials provide the student with an ever accessible source of information, that otherwise would not be at hand. But, besides the increasing complexity and behavior of intelligent software, which is usually embedded in the academic digital material, the need for human interaction in the learning process will always be present, at least in the foreseeable future. There is the necessity for a human being to be able to determine what the specific needs of each individual are. A computer, no matter how sophisticated its software is, can hardly mimic the expertise of a teacher in how to explain and adapt complex concepts to different individuals.

(D) Relaxing attitude and software interactivity
